About Us:

Twitch is the world's biggest live streaming service, with global communities built around gaming, entertainment, music, sports, cooking, and more. It is where thousands of communities come together for whatever, every day.

We're about community, inside and out. You'll find coworkers who are eager to team up, collaborate, and smash (or elegantly solve) problems together. We're on a quest to empower live communities, so if this sounds good to you, see what we're up to on LinkedIn and Twitter, and discover the projects we're solving on our Blog. About the Role Twitch is looking for a Security Engineering Intern to join our Product Security team. The team is responsible for removing security anti-patterns from Twitch's source code and infrastructure and helping drive security outcomes across the company for a variety of challenges.

As an intern, you'll be thrown in the deep end of the pool. You'll own a project from start to finish and find the support of a dedicated Mentor and a Program Manager. You'll also participate in dedicated leadership development curriculum and gain industry knowledge from top Twitch executives in fireside chats. Add to this cohort trips, service opportunities, resume workshops, and housing (yes housing!) and you've got a packed summer.

You Will:

- Participate in Product Security related review and consultation of Twitch services
- Contribute to program and process design and improvements

You Have:

- Capable of thinking through a security problem and presenting a reasonable solution
- Experience in understanding Go, or object-oriented style of programming languages
- Prior experience in cloud infrastructure
- Desire to work collaboratively in a team environment
